

FACT SHEET: MODERN SLAVERY REPORTING REQUIREMENT

The Australian Government will introduce legislation to Parliament by mid-2018 to enact a Commonwealth Modern Slavery Act (MSA). The MSA will establish a Modern Slavery Reporting Requirement (reporting requirement) which will further strengthen Australia's robust approach to modern slavery.<sup>1</sup>

Key features

The reporting requirement will support Australian businesses to respond to modern slavery and increase information available to consumers and investors by providing a practical, risk based framework for transparency. Reporting entities will be required to publish annual Modern Slavery Statements detailing their actions to address modern slavery. This will increase business awareness of modern slavery, reduce modern slavery risks in Australian goods and services, and drive a business 'race to the top' to improve workplace standards and practices.

The Australian Government has run a comprehensive national consultation process to develop the reporting requirement, including 12 consultation roundtables with over 130 participants, 99 written submissions and over 50 direct meetings with key stakeholders.

Key features of the reporting requirement will include:

- Application to a broad range of entities to ensure a level playing field. This includes foreign entities carrying on a business in Australia.
- Coverage of the Australian Government which will lead by example by publishing an annual consolidated statement covering Commonwealth procurement. Commonwealth corporations and Commonwealth companies not covered by the Commonwealth Procurement Rules will publish separate Modern Slavery Statements.
- Reporting on all modern slavery practices criminalised under Commonwealth law, including slavery, trafficking in persons, servitude, forced labour and forced marriage.
- A Government-run, public central repository to ensure all Modern Slavery Statements are easily accessible. Reporting entities will need to publish Modern Slavery Statements within six months from the end of their financial year.
- Four mandatory reporting criteria to provide certainty for business and ensure high quality Modern Slavery Statements. These criteria will require reporting entities to provide information about: their structure, operations and supply chains; potential modern slavery risks; actions taken to address these risks; and how they assess the effectiveness of their actions.

<sup>1</sup> Modern slavery is an umbrella term used to describe human trafficking, slavery and slavery-like practices, such as forced labour and forced marriage.

- A reporting threshold of $100 million annual consolidated revenue. This threshold will cover approximately 3,000 entities.
- Support and assistance for reporting entities through a dedicated Business Engagement Unit in the Department of Home Affairs. The Unit will also promote best-practice, administer the central repository and undertake awareness raising and training.
- Clear and comprehensive guidance for business about the reporting requirement and their obligations. Government will draft this guidance in consultation with business and civil society.
- Commitment to a review of the reporting requirement and its effectiveness three years after it takes effect to ensure it remains appropriate for the Australian context.

“This legislation sends a clear message that modern slavery will not be tolerated in our community or in the supply chains of our goods and services.”

Assistant Minister for Home Affairs, the Hon Alex Hawke MP
