Further to my verbal update to you this week with respect to the 'Biloela Family', the entire family unit continue to be accommodated at the Phosphate Hill facility on Christmas Island. They are housed in accommodation built specifically for families with children, with access to outdoor play areas and age appropriate toys and entertainment for the children. In addition to ongoing comprehensive assessment by medical and mental health practitioners, the family have access communications with their lawyers and all interactions with SERCO personnel are being recorded on body worn cameras to ensure the proper care is being received by the family.
