In such cases policy advice is to approve. I also believe this case has the potential to be escalated by the applicant and could be perceived as a risk to the Department's reputation where there is evidence they are visiting their s. 47F(1) for a significant period of time.

While a joint operation is not considered a critical illness, the applicant has shown evidence that their s. 47F(1) will be unable to move freely for some weeks. they have supplied a stat dec stating they are the only person available to care for their s. 47F(1) I believe compelling / compassionate grounds exist.

Considering the information provided with the request, I am satisfied with the demonstrated reasons and the travel exemption has been granted under the circumstances stated in the submission.

Due to the global pandemic, travel from Australia is permitted under exceptional circumstances only. Considering the information provided with the request and the length of travel, I am not satisfied that exceptional, critical and compelling reasons exist for travel at this time. I am therefore not of the view this travel is appropriate to the health risk posed to the Australian community.

While we understand this may be a difficult time for the family, under the current global pandemic international travel is highly restricted to critical reasons.

Evidence provided demonstrates applicants s. 47F(1) recently passed away and the immediate family wish to attend the funeral.

approved on grounds applicant is relocating to s. 47F(1) for a significant time frame with no intention of returning to Australia until 2022.
This decision is made on the basis the applicant has demonstrated circumstances where travel is necessary and is appropriate as the applicant wishes to attend the s. 47F(1).
approved on grounds applicant is relocating to s. 47F(1) permanently with no intention of returning to Australia for a significant time frame.
approved on compassionate and compelling grounds, consideration has been given to the time frame applicant will be located offshore for with no intention of returning to Australia until March 2020.
I am satisfied that the applicant has provided compelling reasons to depart Australia due to s. 47F(1) current medical circumstances which are considered terminal. This decision is made on the basis the applicant has demonstrated circumstances where travel is necessary and is appropriate and approved on compassionate and compelling grounds.
approved on grounds applicant is relocating to s. 47F(1) for a period of close to three months to reunite with s. 47F(1). Consideration has been given to the time frame applicant will remain offshore and the risk to Australian community would be mitigated through mandatory quarantine requirements upon returning to Australia.
This decision is made on the basis the applicant/s have demonstrated circumstances where travel is necessary and is appropriate on compelling or compassionate grounds as they wish to visit their s. 47F(1) in s. 47F(1) after a long separation. The applicant's travel is supported by a doctor due to the s. 47F(1) issues the applicant is suffering. s. 47C(1)
Although short term travel is not advised, I have had regard to the submission and on this basis I consider that this is sufficient information amounting to compelling grounds to leave Australia. Exemption(s) to travel for the purposes stated, under the Determination is granted.

as per parent.

This decision is made on the basis the applicant/s have demonstrated circumstances where travel is necessary and is appropriate on compelling or compassionate grounds as they wish to escort their s. 47F(1) from s. 47F(1) back to Australia. s. 47C(1)

Travel is for three months. Doctor's certificate recommends travel due to s. 47F(1) issues. This application is approved as I will not go against medical advice and length of travel.

This decision is made on the basis the applicant/s have demonstrated circumstances where travel is necessary and is appropriate on compelling or compassionate grounds as they wish to escort their permanent residence s. 47F(1) and s. 47F(1) to Australia. Whilst I would not normally consider escorting a s. 47F(1) and s. 47F(1) back to Australia a compelling reason for travel, I consider the circumstances are different in this instance due to the travel involving s. 47F(1). s. 47C(1)

This decision is made on the basis the applicant/s have demonstrated circumstances where travel is necessary and is appropriate on compelling or compassionate grounds as they wish to travel to s. 47F(1) to see their s. 47F(1) who they claim has a short terminal diagnosis. I note the applicant's s. 47F(1) was a long term overstayer in Australia and was also in what appeared to be a fraudulent relationship with another party prior to the relationship with the applicant which raises some concerns re their integrity however I accept that the applicant and s. 47F(1) were in a relationship based on documents provided. The evidence supporting the applicant's illness in s. 47F(1) is s. 47C(1) on the basis of the email/letter presented along with the documents suggesting the applicant's s. 47F(1) had a medical problem in Australia, I will accept the claim. s. 47C(1)

Applicant relocating for a period greater than three months. Applicant provided support letter from doctor confirming travel will assist applicant manage ongoing s. 47F(1) issues.

Family representative to attend.

This decision is made on the basis the applicant has demonstrated circumstances where travel is necessary and is appropriate on compelling and compassionate grounds and further in respect of s. 47F(1) funeral.

Applicant seeks to travel to s. 47F(1) at request of parents. Parents have requested that s. 47F(1) travel to provide them support following the death of s. 47F(1). Whilst travelling in relation to s. 47F(1) s. 47F(1) passing does not meet the criteria, I have determined that travelling to support family does meet the criteria for compassionate exemption. The applicant has provided s. 47F(1) death certificate and s. 47C(1), s. 47F(1).

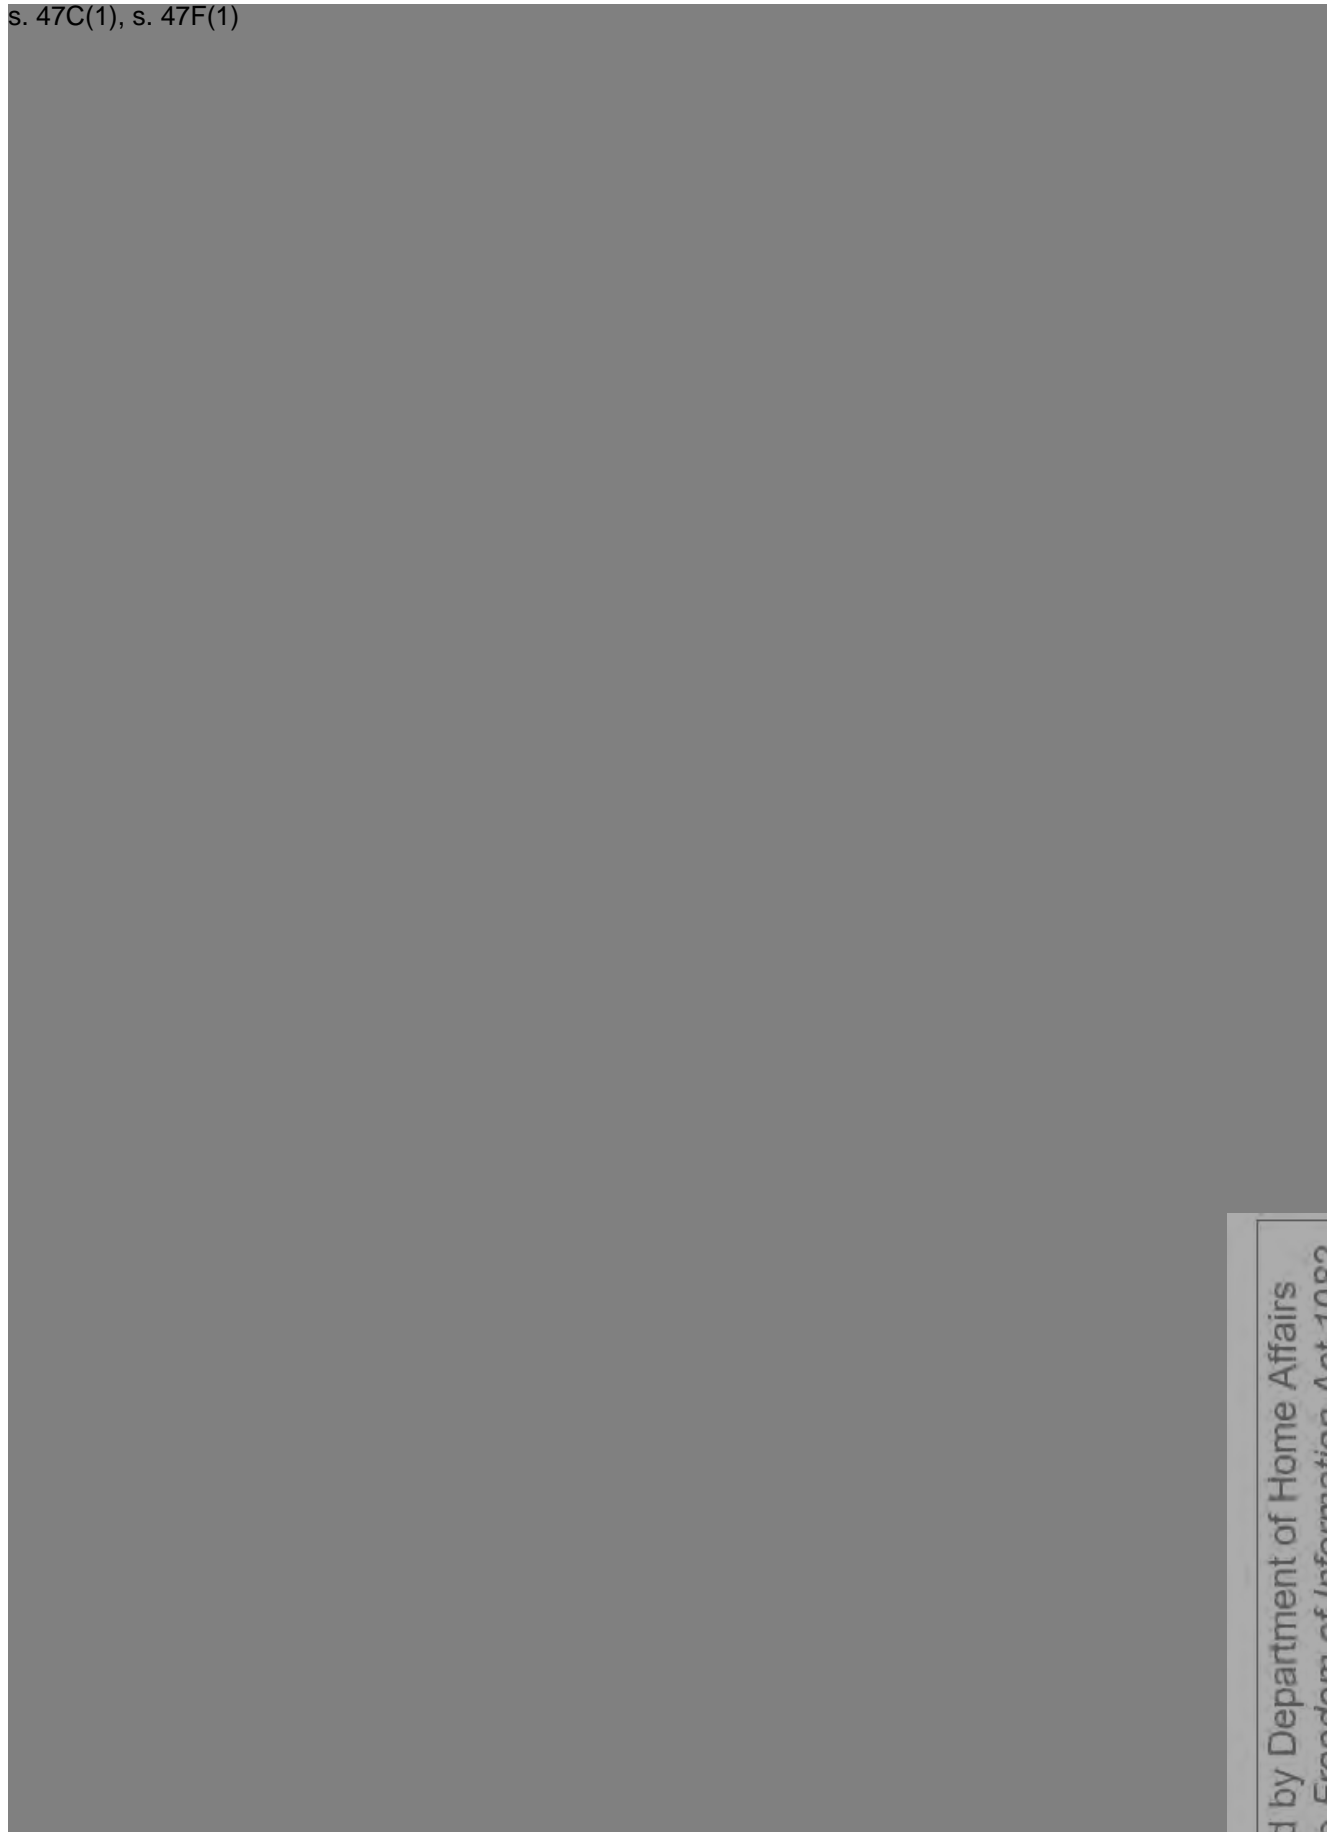

Travelling to be with terminally ill s. 47F(1) who has s. 47F(1). Travelling with s. 47F(1) Relationship demonstrated in client records. Letter from Medical Practitioner demonstrates severity of s. 47F(1) critical illness.

s. 47C(1), s. 47F(1)

This decision is made on the basis the applicant has demonstrated circumstances where travel is necessary and is appropriate on compelling and compassionate grounds and further in respect of s. 47F(1) current medical circumstances which are deteriorating.

s. 47C(1), s. 47F(1)

Approved based on supporting medical evidence

Approved on compassionate grounds

On the basis of the medical advice provided, I am satisfied the applicant has demonstrated circumstances where travel is necessary and is appropriate on compassionate and compelling grounds to continue treatment with s. 47F(1) in s. 47F(1) s. 47F(1)

I note the applicant's s. 47F(1) is currently onshore holding a s. 47F(1) visa, therefore does not require an exemption to depart (not included in this request - for information only).

Relocating to s. 47F(1) for 3 months or more on compassionate grounds

Travel period is for over three months and reasons for travel are for health. Not simply holiday or reunion Approved on declaration and date range.

This decision is made on the basis the applicant/s have demonstrated circumstances where travel is appropriate as they are relocating overseas for 3 months or more to see their family. Travel is supported by a doctor. s. 47C(1)

This decision is made on the basis the applicant/s have demonstrated circumstances where travel is necessary and is appropriate on compelling or compassionate grounds as they wish to escort their Australian citizen s. 47F(1) and s. 47F(1) back to Australia. In normal circumstances I would not consider travel to escort a s. 47F(1) and s. 47F(1) to Australia was sufficiently compelling to warrant a travel exemption however given the presence of s. 47F(1) I am prepared to approval travel. s. 47C(1)

Travelling for more than 3 months.

Travelling for more than 3 months.

This decision is made on the basis the applicant/s have demonstrated circumstances where travel is necessary and is appropriate on compelling or compassionate grounds as they wish to care for their s. 47F(1) in the short term until s. 47F(1) can be relocated to s. 47F(1) after injuring herself. Whilst the applicant has not provided a medical report stating s. 47F(1) requires care, I place moderate weight in that regard on the emergency room report provided in support. s. 47C(1)

Relocating to s. 47F(1) for 3 months or more for compassionate family issues

Although short term travel is not advised, I have had regard to the submission and of supporting documentation and on this basis I consider that these are sufficient information amounting to compelling grounds to leave Australia. Exemption(s) to travel for the purposes stated, under the Determination is granted.

This decision is made on the basis the applicant has demonstrated circumstances where travel is necessary and is appropriate on compelling and compassionate grounds and further in respect of s. 47F(1) receiving medical treatment overseas.

approved on grounds applicant is relocating to s. 47F(1) for a significant period of time with no intention of returning to Australia until June 2021.

This decision is made on the basis that the applicant has demonstrated circumstances where travel is necessary and is appropriate on grounds the applicant is accompanying s. 47F(1). See evidence in s. 47F(1).

approved on grounds applicant is seeking exemption to travel to s. 47F(1) to support s. 47F(1) who has recently suffered a s. 47F(1). Applicant has provided sufficient evidence in support of s. 47F(1) need to travel through s. 47F(1) hospital letter.

This decision is made on the basis the applicant has demonstrated circumstances where travel is necessary and appropriate on compassionate grounds as the applicant's s. 47F(1) is overseas waiting on a s. 47F(1) visa application outcome which could take a considerable amount of time. Applicant has provided letters from s. 47F(1) treating doctors in support of claim. s. 47C(1) approved on those grounds.

This decision is made on the basis that the applicant has demonstrated circumstances where travel is necessary due to s. 47F(1) requiring surgery and does not have appropriate support networks to provide adequate post-surgery care. I have considered the intended return date and due to limited flight availability, return to Australia is not guaranteed and can influence the applicant's ability to return to Australia within their expected time frame. s. 47C(1) approved on those grounds.

This decision is made on the basis the applicant has demonstrated circumstances where travel is necessary and is appropriate as the applicant is travelling for more than three months to support s. 47F(1) who is visiting s. 47F(1) suffering from s. 47F(1).

I am satisfied that the applicant has provided compelling reasons to depart Australia due to s. 47F(1) current medical circumstances which are considered terminal.

Consideration has also been given to the length of intended travel.

approved on those grounds.

approved on grounds applicant is relocating to s. 47F(1) for a period of three months. Consideration has been given to s. 47F(1) current personal circumstances and the support applicant will receive from family in s. 47F(1) approved on grounds applicant is permanently relocating to s. 47F(1) with no intention of returning to Australia. Applicant has provided sufficient evidence to show s. 47F(1) is departing Australia with intent of not returning in the foreseeable future.

I am satisfied that the applicant has provided compelling reasons to depart Australia due to s. 47F(1) current medical circumstances.

Consideration has also been given to the length of intended travel.

This decision is made on the basis the applicant has demonstrated circumstances where travel is necessary and appropriate as the applicant wishes to support s. 47F(1) who resides alone in s. 47F(1). Nil family support. Sufficient supporting documentation has been provided in support of claim made. s. 47C(1) approved on those grounds.

This decision is made on the basis that applicant is ordinarily resident in a country other than Australia. System checks confirm applicant has spent s. 47F(1) outside of Australia in the last 2 years. I am satisfied that the applicant meets travel exemption requirements.

This decision is made on the basis the applicant/s have demonstrated circumstances where travel is necessary and is appropriate on compelling or compassionate grounds as they wish to travel to s. 47F(1) to see their family. In making this decision I have place significant weight on the s. 47F(1) letter which supports travel. s. 47C(1)

s. 47F(1)

Application is approved for outwards travel on the basis of travel on compassionate or humanitarian grounds. Supporting information has been provided to support the case and need/claim for travel. s. 47C(1) approved on those grounds.

Providing support to s. 47F(1) in s. 47F(1) who recently lost s. 47F(1) in a car accident. Deceased was the s. 47F(1) of applicant. Relationship to s. 47F(1) verified on clients record.

This decision is made on the basis that the applicant has demonstrated circumstances where travel is necessary and is appropriate on grounds the applicant is relocating to s. 47F(1) for 3 months or more. s. 47C(1) approved on those grounds.

I am satisfied the applicant has demonstrated circumstances where travel is necessary and is appropriate on compassionate and compelling grounds as the applicant wishes to spend some quality time with s. 47F(1) who has recently been diagnosed with aggressive s. 47F(1). I have taken into consideration that the main applicant's s. 47F(1) (non-immediate family member) is travelling to provide support and assistance with their s. 47F(1)

Applicant's s. 47F(1) non-immediate family member meets the travel exemption guidelines.

Main applicant's s. 47F(1), non-immediate family member meets the travel exemption guidelines.

Long term relocation to care for s. 47F(1) evidence, statement, date range support.

Client has demonstrated compelling and compassionate circumstances for travel. While reuniting with a s. 47F(1) is generally considered not to fall within the exemption criteria, in this case I have given greater weight to other factors, including the fact that the client was approved to travel earlier in April 2020, on the same grounds, and that the client is indicating an intended travel period of just over 2 months.

Applicant's s. 47F(1) requires assistance with s. 47F(1) episode.

This decision is made on the basis the applicant has demonstrated circumstances where travel is necessary and is appropriate as the applicant's ^{s. 47F(1)} requires family support after ^{s. 47F(1)} ^{s. 47F(1)} has been diagnosed with terminal ^{s. 47F(1)}. Travel duration is reasonable and has been considered in this decision, along with the compassionate circumstances which in my opinion is significant enough to warrant consideration, despite the patient not being immediate family.

Due to the urgent nature of the travel, I have contacted the applicant at ^{s. 47F(1)} /2020 via telephone to the nominated phone number and spoken to the applicant about ^{s. 47C(1)}, ^{s. 47F(1)}

satisfied that compelling grounds for travel exist, and therefore travel is approved.

This decision is made on the basis the applicant has demonstrated circumstances where travel is necessary and is appropriate as the applicant's ^{s. 47F(1)} passed away ^{s. 47F(1)} and they wish to attend ^{s. 47F(1)} funeral and arrange ^{s. 47F(1)} personal affairs. I have also considered the extended travel duration declared.

This decision is made on the basis the applicant has demonstrated circumstances where travel is necessary and is appropriate as ^{s. 47F(1)} is travelling to visit ^{s. 47F(1)} who is suffering from ^{s. 47F(1)} and is critically ill. ^{s. 47F(1)} claims that ^{s. 47F(1)} is unable to travel and has provided medical evidence. Therefore I am of the opinion that compassionate circumstances exist for the applicant to travel on behalf of ^{s. 47F(1)} family in Australia.

This decision is made on the basis the applicant has demonstrated circumstances where travel is appropriate on compelling grounds.
