Date published	Queue release update
	We have identified some discrepancies in processing times between offshore and onshore visas in both Parent and Contributory Parent categories and are taking action to correct them. * Onshore Contributory Parent (UU884 and DG864) visa subclasses have been assessed up to February 2017. Onshore Contributory Parent visas lodged from February 2017 onwards are likely to take longer to process while we action offshore Contributory Parent (CA143 and TU173) applications to bring the dates back to parity.  Onshore Aged Parent (BP804) visas have been assessed up to Queued Date of December 2012. Onshore Aged Parent applications with a Queued Date of December 2012 onwards are likely to take longer to process while we action offshore Parent (AX103) applications to bring the dates back to parity. All Contributory Parent visa applications lodged before 1 June 2018 have been given a queue date of the application lodgement date and applications lodged on or after 1 June 2018 are assessed and given a queue date when it meets the initial visa criteria.

2. The Department is unable to give exact processing timeframes for Parent visas as they are subject to capping and queuing. Estimated processing timeframes based on the current number of places available per year and monthly queue release updates are published on the Parent visas – queue release dates and processing times webpage. This webpage includes information on all Parent visas, including Aged Parent visa (subclass 804) and Contributory Aged Parent visa (subclass 864). Excerpts from previous versions of the Parent visas – queue release dates and processing times webpage are included in the table above.
