

Application for a Resolution of Status (subclass 851) visa

Form

1364

The Department of Immigration and Border Protection (the department) acknowledges that Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples are the traditional custodians of the Australian land.

Important – Please read this information carefully before you complete your application. Once you have completed your application we strongly advise that you keep a copy for your records.

Read the information form 1025i Making and processing visa applications. This will tell you how to apply for a visa and how your application will be processed.

Complete this application form (1364) if:

- you are in Australia; and
- you were granted one of the following visas before 9 August 2008:
  - Temporary Protection (subclass 785) visa;
  - Secondary Movement Offshore Entry (Temporary) (subclass 447) visa; or
  - Secondary Movement Relocation (Temporary) (subclass 451) visa; or
- you are a member of the family unit of a person who was granted one of the above named visas before 9 August 2008 and you were in Australia on 9 August 2008.

People who were granted a Temporary Protection visa, Secondary Movement Offshore Entry (Temporary) (subclass 447) visa or a Secondary Movement Relocation (Temporary) (subclass 451) visa before 9 August 2008 may apply for the Resolution of Status (Class CD) (subclass 851) visa. The Resolution of Status (subclass 851) visa is a permanent visa with the same benefits and entitlements of the permanent Protection visa. Only health and character requirements will need to be met for this visa, and there will be no reassessment of protection claims.

Life in Australia – Australian values

The Australian Government encourages people to gain an understanding of Australia, its people and their way of life, before applying for a visa to live in Australia.

This includes understanding that the English language, as the national language, is an important unifying element of Australian society. Australian society is also united through the following shared values:

- respect for the freedom and dignity of the individual;
- freedom of religion;
- commitment to the rule of law;
- Parliamentary democracy;
- equality of men and women;
- a spirit of egalitarianism that embraces mutual respect, tolerance, fair play and compassion for those in need and pursuit of the public good;
- equality of opportunity for individuals, regardless of their race, religion or ethnic background.

The Life in Australia booklet provides more information on the values that Australians share and their way of life. This booklet is available in a wide range of languages. If you have not already received a copy then it can be obtained from the department's website www.border.gov.au or from any office of the department.

You must read the Life in Australia booklet before completing this application form. If you have difficulty, or are unable to read the booklet, you may have the content of it explained to you. This form contains a statement that confirms you understand and will respect the values of Australian society (as explained in the booklet) and will obey the laws of Australia. This includes acknowledging what would be required if you later applied for Australian citizenship.

This statement must be signed by each person aged 18 years or over, who is included in this form.

Integrity of application

The department is committed to maintaining the integrity of the visa and citizenship programmes. Please be aware that if you provide us with fraudulent documents or claims, this may result in processing delays and possibly your application being refused.

Making a valid application for a Resolution of Status visa

This application form asks you to provide the following personal identifiers:

- a passport quality passport size photograph (face and shoulders); and
- a signature.

Applicants should provide a recent passport size photograph and attach the photograph to the visa application form. To ensure that your passport photo is of the required quality, you must obtain one from a photo shop or photo booth that complies with the relevant quality standards.

The photograph is to have a certification in writing by a Justice of the Peace, Commissioner for Declarations or a Commissioner for Affidavits on the back of the photo that provides that it is a true likeness of the person named in the Resolution of Status visa application.

Where a combined visa application is made by a family unit, a recent passport size photograph of each family member included in the visa application form must be provided. The photograph of each family member is to have a certification in writing by a Justice of the Peace on the back of the photo that provides that it is a true likeness of the family member named in this application. The photograph is to be attached to the visa application form.

Minors and incapable persons

A child less than 15 years of age or a person who is unable to sign the form on his or her own behalf due to incapacity should provide a recent passport sized photograph (face and shoulders), but does not need to sign the visa application form. A parent or guardian can sign on their behalf. Unaccompanied minors may sign the application on their own behalf.

Including family members in your application

In your visa application you will be asked for information about each member of your family unit (such as your partner or children) even if they do not intend to migrate with you. Information about which family members are considered to be a 'member of your family unit' for migration purposes is available by referring to form 1496i Including family members in your application or form 1497i Including family members in your refugee, humanitarian or protection visa application.

Form 1496i and form 1497i are available from the department's website www.border.gov.au/allforms/ or offices of the department. You should ensure that you read and understand form 1496i or form 1497i before completing this form.

Your status while your application is processed

If you hold a valid visa you should lodge your application before your current visa expires. When your visa expires, you become unlawful in Australia. If you are unlawful, or likely to become unlawful in the near future you will need to apply for a bridging visa to ensure lawful status in Australia while your visa application is being processed.

If you hold a subclass 447 or subclass 451 visa, your visa will continue until your application is finalised.

Further information about bridging visas, including eligibility for a bridging visa with permission to work is available from the department's website

www.border.gov.au/trav/visi/visi/bridging-visas

Important information about privacy

Your personal information is protected by law, including the Privacy Act 1988. Important information about the collection, use and disclosure (to other agencies and third parties, including overseas entities) of your personal information, including sensitive information, is contained in form 1442i Privacy notice. Form 1442i is available from the department's website www.border.gov.au/allforms/ or offices of the department. You should ensure that you read and understand form 1442i before completing this form.

Getting help to prepare your application

Immigration assistance

A person gives immigration assistance to you if he or she uses, or claims to use, his or her knowledge or experience in migration procedure to assist you with your visa application, request for ministerial intervention, cancellation review application, sponsorship or nomination.

In Australia a person may only lawfully give immigration assistance if he or she is a registered migration agent or is exempt from being registered. Only registered migration agents may receive a fee or reward for providing immigration assistance.

If an unregistered person in Australia, who is not exempt from registration, gives you immigration assistance they are committing a criminal offence and may be prosecuted.

Migration agents in Australia

Migration agents in Australia must be registered with the Office of the Migration Agents Registration Authority (Office of the MARA) unless they are exempt from registration.

Migration agents outside Australia

Migration agents who operate outside Australia do not have to be registered. The department may give some overseas agents an ID number. This number does not mean that they are registered.

Note: Some Australian registered migration agents operate overseas.

Migration agent information

A migration agent is someone who can:

- advise you on the visa that may best suit you;
- tell you the documents you need to submit with your application;
- help you fill in the application and submit it; and
- communicate with the department on your behalf.

If you appoint a migration agent, the department will assume that your migration agent will be your authorised recipient, unless you indicate otherwise.

Your migration agent will be the person with whom the department will discuss your application and from whom it will seek further information when required.

You are not required to use a migration agent. However, if you use a migration agent, the department encourages you to use a registered migration agent. Registered agents are bound by the Migration Agents Code of Conduct, which requires them to act professionally in their clients' lawful best interests.

Information on migration agents, including a list of registered migration agents, is available on the Office of the MARA website www.mara.gov.au

You can also access information about migration agents on the department's website www.border.gov.au

Exempt persons

The following people do not have to be a registered migration agent in order to provide immigration assistance, but they must not charge a fee for their service:

- a close family member (spouse, de facto partner, child, parent, brother or sister);
- a member of parliament or their staff;
- an official whose duties include providing immigration assistance (eg. a Legal Aid provider);
- a member of a diplomatic mission, consular post or international organisation.

Appointing a migration agent/exempt person

To appoint a migration agent/exempt person you should complete Question 17 Options for receiving written communications.

Your migration agent/exempt person should complete form 956 Advice by a migration agent/exempt person of providing immigration assistance.

Form 956 is available from the department's website www.border.gov.au/allforms

Options for receiving written communications

If you do not appoint a migration agent/exempt person you may still authorise another person, in writing, to receive written communications on your behalf. This person is called the authorised recipient.

Authorised recipient information

All written communication about your application will be sent to your authorised recipient, unless you indicate that you wish to have health and/or character information sent directly to you.

The department will communicate with the most recently appointed authorised recipient as you may only appoint one authorised recipient at any time for a particular application.

You will be taken to have received any documents sent to that person as if they had been sent to you.

To appoint an authorised recipient you should complete:

- Question 17 Options for receiving written communications; and
- form 956A Appointment or withdrawal of an authorised recipient.

Note: Migration agents/exempt persons do not need to complete form 956A.

Form 956A is available from the department's website

www.border.gov.au/allforms

Consent to communicate electronically

The department may use a range of means to communicate with you. However, electronic means such as fax or email will only be used if you indicate your agreement to receiving communication in this way.

To process your application the department may need to communicate with you about sensitive information, for example, health, police checks, financial viability and personal relationships. Electronic communications, unless adequately encrypted, are not secure and may be viewed by others or interfered with.

If you agree to the department communicating with you by electronic means, the details you provide will only be used by the department for the purpose for which you have provided them, unless there is a legal obligation or necessity to use them for another purpose, or you have consented to use for another purpose. They will not be added to any mailing list.

The Australian Government accepts no responsibility for the security or integrity of any information sent to the department over the internet or by other electronic means.

If you authorise another person to receive documents on your behalf and they wish to be contacted electronically, their signature is required on form 956 or 956A to indicate their consent to this form of communication.

Note: Electronic communication is the fastest means of communication available and the department prefers to communicate electronically because this results in faster processing.

Other forms of help

If you do not have a good command of the English language, you should use an interpreter or translator to help prepare your application. Your local office of the department or a Migrant Resource Centre or other community groups who are active in refugee matters will be able to tell you how to get help in your language. You can also call the Translating and Interpreting Service (TIS).

Telephone: 131 450

Note: All the people included in this application must be in Australia at the time of application.

Completing your application

As part of this application you may have to supply supporting documents.

If you do not have the required documents or information, you should take immediate steps to obtain them to include in your application.

If you have the following documents you must supply originals and certified copies of the originals (certified as true copies by a Justice of the Peace, a Commissioner for Declarations, or a Commissioner for Affidavits):

- all pages of passports and other travel documents held by all the people in the application, including the documents used to enter Australia originally;
- birth certificates or notarial certificates for each person in this application; and
- identity card or identity number that has been issued to you by the government of the country of which you are a citizen or in which you have resided.

Where applicable, members of a family unit must also provide originals and certified copies of the following documents:

- for spouse, a marriage certificate;
- for de facto partner, documents of financial assets or undertakings in both names, and any other evidence that it is a genuine on-going relationship;
- for non-partner members of your family unit aged 18 or over, evidence that the person is dependent on you (such as bank drafts, medical reports, statements from medical or educational establishments, or from other family members, evidence of residence at the same address); and
- evidence of any change of name.

You may also provide any additional documents which are relevant to your application.

Original documents will be returned to you, the certified copies will be retained by the department.

Documents in a language other than English should be accompanied by an English translation completed by a translator accredited by the National Accreditation Authority for Translators and Interpreters (NAATI). You should ask the translator for evidence of their NAATI accreditation, and attach it to the translation.

If you are unable to provide any of these documents with your application, you should lodge your application and provide the documents later. You should provide a full explanation of why these documents cannot be supplied with your application. If possible, you can provide alternative documentation or evidence.

Lodging your application

You are responsible for lodging your application, and this can be done at any office of the department.

Acknowledgement

When we receive your application we will send you an acknowledgement. The letter acknowledging receipt of your application will give details of the phone number and address which you may use if you need to contact the department.

Note: If you contact the department by phone, only limited information about your application can be given so that we can make sure your private details are not given to others.

Your application will be processed as quickly as possible and you will be told the decision in writing.

Residential address and communication with applicant

You must tell the department where you intend to live while your application is being dealt with. Failure to give a residential address will result in your application being invalid.

A post office box address will not be accepted as your residential address. In the case of the family unit, the department will communicate with either the person nominated as 'Applicant 1' in the application, or with the person authorised to receive written communications in the application.

Should you plan to change your residential address for more than 14 days, you must advise the department of your new residential address and the period you will be living there.

Correspondence sent by the department to the last address you have provided will be regarded as having been received. Should you fail to make arrangements for collection or forwarding of your mail while you are absent from that address, you may not receive important correspondence from the department about your application. This may affect the outcome of your application and your access to review.

Form 929 Change of address and/or passport details is available from any immigration office.

A decision made on your application will be sent to the last address given by you (or to your migration agent/solicitor if you have one).

Change of circumstances

If your circumstances change after you make your application (for example, you get married or the composition of your family unit changes), you must inform us of the new circumstances.

Form 1022 Notification of changes in circumstances is used for this purpose and is available from any office of the department or from the department's website www.border.gov.au/allforms/

Additional information

If you have new information related to your application, you should send it to the department as soon as possible so that it can be considered with your application.

A decision on your application will be made on the basis of all the information you provide to the department prior to a decision being made, and in accordance with the requirements of the Migration Act 1958 and Migration Regulations 1994.

Incorrect answers given

If you think you have given an incorrect answer on your application, you must notify the department and provide the correct information.

Form 1023 Notification of incorrect answers is available from any immigration office or visit the department's website www.border.gov.au/allforms/

Interviews and requests for more information

We will advise you in writing if you are required to attend an interview. We will also advise you in writing if we want you to provide more documents or information.

Note: You may be asked to make an oath or affirmation that the information you provide is true.
