Dear Ass Access Consultation Process,
I make the following brief submission, despite knowing my efforts are pissing into the wind:

The cheaper and more efficient alternative option would be to effectively limit criminal, terrorist, cultural, so-called religious and out of control domestic government practices that threaten established Australian values, with the primary objective of protecting and enforcing law-biding Australian citizens' rights, privileges and privacy.

This can include the government as the latter, not the former.

The Australian and state governments' evolving practices of placing limits on everyday citizens to accommodate the behaviour of criminal and cultural delinquents is the antithesis of competent government.

The irony and humour of those who selected the name "Ass Access" is really appreciated. They have chosen to tell it like it is.

The government of Australia and incompetent legislators certainly are fucking the country over.

Thank you.
