As a citizen of Australia, and under the belief that there are honest businesses being operated in the country, I share my personal information with the businesses, which I would not share if I had not need the service of the businesses, I trust in the capability of the security of my data shared with the business.

If any cyber attack on the business's database make my data available to the unintended organisations, I would definitely would like the government to investigate the irresponsibility if the business, and penalise the business if found guilty.
