Thank you for the opportunity to make a submission:

I do not believe that the current significant cost threshold policy is fair and think that the threshold should be doubled to bring it into line with other countries that we tend to compare ourselves with such as Canada and New Zealand. I also think that: 1) if a child is born in Australia that they should receive an automatic health waiver regardless of the visa status of their parents 2) that special education should not be included in the cost calculation; and 3) that the rule that everyone in a family unit will not get a visa if one is judged to fail the significant cost threshold test, should be revoked.

Sincerely
